CHIEF SWAYZE DOES A GREAT HOUR'S WORK

Four Gentlemen of Leisure Agree to Disagree Among Themselves and Land in the Cooler as a Consequence

R. DUNCAN & CO.

July and August Saturday Afternoon Closing

During the months of JULY and AUGUST, our store will be closed SATURDAY AFTERNOON at husky sons of ten inside of an hour. Four gentlemen of leisure wandered into town about noon. One of them had a suit case and a concertino. One of the gents wanted the concertino and the owner refused to give it up, so the other guy knocked him down and took it. A few minutes later the Chief arrived on the scene and carried Mr. Concertino Taker away to Booby Hatch. In the meantime the fellow who owned the music box, took his suit case into Well's store and left it there. He had just come out of the store when the Big Chief meandered along and ran him in. He put up an awful scrap but was no match for lion-hearted cop. While the Chief was busy at the coop, the third member of the party wandered into Well's store and took his partner's suit case and took it up street and sold it for a dollar. The Chief soon got wise to this and landed Mr. Third Party in the coop. The fourth member disappeared, but came back about four o'clock and went into the Chief's office and demanded the suit case. He started into the Desk Sergeant and got heated out into the street for his trouble. On Saturday morning the disturbers appeared before Magistrate Kidd and were remanded till Tuesday morning. (When they came up Tuesday morning.) (Continued on page 3)

MRS. GEO. VAN DYKE SUDDENLY CALLED HOME

The Many Friends of the Deceased Lady Were Grieved and Shocked to Hear of her Sudden Demise on Tuesday Morning

MARRIED 25 YEARS

She was Born in North Grimsby Township Fifty Eight Years Ago—Leaves a Heartbroken Husband and two Children

The many friends in GRIMSBY and district were grieved and shocked Tuesday morning to learn of the sudden death of Mrs. Margaret, beloved wife of George S. VanDyke, Deput. St. The deceased lady about two years ago suffered from a slight stroke but recovered and it was thought that she was completely cured. On Monday evening she went out into her garden to pick some garden stuff and while busy, suddenly fell forward on her face. Kind hands rushed to her assistance and carried her into the house and medical aid was quickly summoned. The doctors found that she had been stricken with a hemorrhage in the head which was the form of a stroke. She rested easily until about ten o'clock when she became unconscious and never again rallied, passing away shortly after seven in the morning. Mrs. VanDyke was born in North Grimsby Township fifty-eight years ago and was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Durham. About twenty-five years ago she was united in marriage to Mr. VanDyke and two children blessed this union. She was a woman who never tired of doing good and took a great interest in her home and her children and saw her children grow to young man and womanhood, as two of the finest young people in GRIMSBY. In religion she was an Anglican. She leaves to mourn her loss a heartbroken husband, two children, (Continued on page 3)

DOMINION DAY A BIG DAY AT BEACH OFFICIAL RETURNS GIVE MARSHALL A MAJORITY OF 281

Rain Interfered for a While in the Afternoon, but This did not Dampen the Ardor of the big Crowd Present

KNICKERBOCKER STOCK CO. MAKES A HIT

Over Thirteen Hundred People Saw the Company Present "The Call of the Woods" in an Admirable Manner

TWO STRONG BILLS

"Clouds and Sunshine" Will be Presented the Last Half of This Week, and "A Fool of Fortune" the First Half of Next

Despite the inclemency of the weather, Dominion Day, was a great day at GRIMSBY Beach and the big crowd that was present throughout the day enjoyed themselves to the utmost. Early in the morning the boats from Hamilton and Toronto unloaded the masses of passengers and buildings. The G. T. R. trains deposited a large quota of pleasure seekers. All afternoon the thrifty sons of the soil and their families from over the mountain were driving in and each one carried a heavily laden picnic basket packed with the good things that only a farmer's wife can produce. The rain which commenced to fall about two-thirty, made things a little miserable, but the crowd found plenty of shelter from the falling water in the Auditorium and other places of amusement. The matinee in the Auditorium was the biggest matinee ever played at the Beach and the company pleased the big house immensely. In the evening the Knickerbocker Stock Co. in the Auditorium was the big attraction and they had a packed house of over thirteen hundred people to greet them. The bill was that stirring drama of the great north country "The Call of the Woods" and to say that the company made good and tickled the big crowd is putting it mild. The play itself was a strong one and it was very ably handled by this excellent company. In the leads Miss Hale and Mr. Strong were very fine. Miss Hale proved herself to be a very versatile actress and lived up to all the advance press notices and the good things that had been said about her. As "Dave Ferguson", the no-account lumber jack, Mr. E. King Strong was simply great and carried the big house with, on nearly every speech. His work showed that he is especially adapted to the playing of strong characters and he made a big hit with his auditors. Miss Claire as the mother of Dave and Willis made an admirable man and her work was of the very highest order. Miss Georgie Burdell, as Hilda, the daughter of "Flapjack" played her part in excellent fashion and her work elicited much comment from her listeners. The comedy in this bill was of the very highest order and was well handled by those two clever comedians Mr. Sam Brandfield and Mr. Eddie Black. As "Dr. Quackenbush" Mr. Brandfield was very funny, especially in his efforts to propose to the widow. As the simple country boy and the son of the doctor, Mr. Eddie Black was a scream and he soon found a warm spot in the hearts of the people who love good comedy. His facial expression and dialect were very choice and his acting of this simple youth, was one of the most natural bits of work that has been seen in this part of the country in a long time. Mr. Albert West as Willis, (The Villain) showed that he is thoroughly capable of playing a heavy character when he is asked to. As "Flapjack" Mr. Allan Mather, was far above the ordinary and he handled his part in a manner that stamped him of being an actor of ability. (Continued on page 3)

WILLIAM MURRY DENNY PASSES AWAY AT AGE OF 27

Deceased was the Second Son of Sir Archibald Denny, Baronet, Dumbartonshire, Scotland, who was Preparing to Come Here for Summer

REMAINS CREMATED

The Young Man had Only Been ill a Short Time, With Pneumonia, and was Apparently Improving When he Suffered a Relapse

The death occurred at the Hamilton hospital, Thursday morning of a well-known and highly respected resident of Beamsville, in the person of William Murray Denny. The deceased took ill with pneumonia on Saturday and his condition became so serious that it necessitated his removal to the hospital. While he showed signs of improvement up until Wednesday evening, he had a relapse Thursday morning and in his weakened condition was unable to withstand the shock. He was born in Scotland 27 years ago, and was the second son of Sir Archibald Denny, baronet, Dumbartonshire, Scotland, who was to have visited his son for a few weeks this summer, leaving his home in Scotland on Saturday, July 4, for Canada. Mr. Denny has been a resident of Beamsville for a number of years and spent the greater part of his time at his home, Walker Hall and in looking after a small fruit farm. During his life in this community he had endeared himself to a host of friends, all of whom will regret to learn of his rather sudden death. He is survived by his wife and no family. The remains of William Murray Denny, second son of Sir Archibald Denny, baronet, of Cardross, Dumbartonshire, Scotland, were shipped to Montreal, on Sunday evening, and there cremated. The instructions for the cremation were received in a telegram from the father of the deceased Friday morning. The ashes will be sealed and sent to Cardross for interment.

STEPHEN'S STORE VISITED BY THIEVES

Grimsby's Annual Robbery Occurred on Monday Night or Tuesday Morning When Stephen's Store was Robbed

OVER $100 IN CLOTHES STOLEN

The Bold, Bad Brigands Out-fitted Themselves From Head to Toe With the Best of Everything in the Store

LEFT OLD CLOTHES

An Entrance was Made by Forcing a Window in the Rear of the Store—Chief of Police Swayze at Work

GRIMSBY is the luckiest town on the map. It only has one robbery a year and some years not that, but it seems that every time a robbery takes place, it happens in a gent's furnishing store. Some time between ten o'clock Monday night and seven o'clock Tuesday morning a couple of bold brigands entered the store of Mr. M. Stephen, Main St. and made away with about one hundred dollars worth of wearing to Rayner's feed store. First they started to take the putty off the glass, but decided that this was too slow a mode of procedure, and then forced the window with a jimmy. Once inside they outfitted themselves from head to toe and left their old clothes lying on the floor. When Mr. Thos. Stephen opened the store about seven-thirty, he immediately discovered the theft and notified Chief of Police Swayze. The crooks left no clue of their identity, other than the old clothes. They left the store by way of the rear door. The men, judging from the size of the suits taken, would weigh about 160 and 180 pounds, respectively, and 180 pounds, respectively. Two suits, one with a pin stripe running through it were taken, as were two raincoats, two hats and two pairs of shoes, also a lot of colors, ties, belts, tie pins and cuff links. Up to date Chief Swayze has not been able to locate the culprits and it is hardly likely that he ever will, as there is no doubt that they were well away from GRIMSBY when the theft was discovered.

IN MEMORIAM

WILLIAM MURRAY DENNY, Gentleman, 91st Canadian Highlanders.

When soldiers bivouac at night And "Pile Arms" in the fading light, Beneath the shadows of the hills, 'Mid chatter of the mountain rills And smell of heather and the bloom, The crackling camp-fire lights the gloom; Then comrades hug the cheery blaze, And, peering, dream of coming days. The upward sparks melt in the night; One comrade leaves the patch of light, And, led by noiseless, unseen guide, Steps out across the Great Divide. —John Stephen.

The deceased was the son of Sir Archibald Denny, Cardross, Dumbartonshire, Scotland. His death marks the first break in the ranks of the Ninety-First officers since the regiment was organized.

Facts and Fancies

By Frank Fairborn

There is not quite as much unanimity amongst the Liberal newspapers now, on the question of Abolish the Bar, as there was previous to the day of election.

Some of the Liberal papers and some strong Liberals are now demanding that the leaders of the party call a convention and decide on a platform that will appeal to the country.

Of course, some of the papers and a great many Liberals are anxious to retain the plank of Abolish the Bar, but the wise ones never want to go to the country again on a platform with a single plank or a plank that engrosses all the attention of the electors, to the exclusion of everything else.

It has generally been the custom, in the past that when a party is badly defeated on some leading question, that that question never came up again in an election, in the same form—the question of Abolish the Bar will probably have the same fate as others have.

On the question of Abolish the Bar, the Liberal party is between the Devil and the deep sea.

If the abolition of the bar is a moral question, it has no right to be taken up as a party question.

If the abolition of the bar is purely a economic question, then the ministers of the Gospel and the synods, conferences, presbyteries and temperance conventions have no right to meddle with it at all any more than they would have a right to meddle with the assessment, or the tariff, or railway matters, or drainage or water courses.

Many ministers of the Gospel claim that the abolition of the bar is a moral question and that therefore they have a right to enter into the field to discuss it, either in their pulpits or on the political platform.

I maintain that legislation for the abolition of the bar is not a moral question at all and that it is a purely economic question or a matter of political economy.

I maintain that temperance is a moral question and should be ranked with honesty, truthfulness and virtue. But, while temperance is purely and properly a moral question, local option, prohibition, the abolition of the bar and the Scot Act are all economic questions.

There is no question, nor there never has been a question as to whether temperance should be universally supported, but there has been a question and there always will be a question as to whether prohibition, local option, the abolition of the bar or the Scot Act are wise methods of controlling the liquor traffic.

In my opinion, the Province of Ontario is controlling the liquor traffic very much more successfully, and more honestly, than the State of Maine where a man can secure liquor illegally as there are places where a man can secure liquor, legally, in the Province of Ontario.

I have no figures before me at the present moment, but I will endeavor to obtain figures along this line, in order to compare the consumption of liquor sold illegally, in the State of Maine (under prohibition) with the consumption of liquor in the Province of Ontario, sold legally (under a license law).

Of course, there is a great deal of liquor consumed in Ontario in the districts where there are no open bars. For instance, there are thousands of upon thousands of dollars' worth of liquor consumed every year in Orillia, Owen Sound, Galt, Collingwood and all the other districts where there are no open bars.

The consumption of liquor in these districts, added to the consumption of liquor in the districts where the bars are open brings the consumption of liquor in the whole Province of Ontario up to a point where statistics would probably show the consumption of liquor in the Province of Ontario per head, to be as much as in the State of Maine.

But, on considering the consumption of liquor in any country, the kind of liquor should always be taken into consideration.

There is no doubt that there is a great deal more lager beer consumed in the Province of Ontario than there is in the State of Maine, because the chief drink of the people in license districts, in the Province of Ontario is lager beer, while in the State of Maine, the chief drink is the worst kind of Indian whiskey and strong liquors of all kinds, badly adulterated and highly injurious to men physically and mentally.

The consideration of all these points removes the question of prohibition or partial prohibition entirely out of the field of temperance or entirely out of the moral field, and places it in the field of political economy.

In fact, the question dissolves itself into this: Whether it is better for the people of Canada to drink liquor illegally or legally, as it positively goes without argument that the people will drink anyway. If they cannot drink legally and openly they will drink illegally and secretly and the question for legislators to decide is whether it is better to have the people drink under a license law under proper control or under partial prohibition with lack of control to a great extent.

It is a marvelous thing that men pretending to be temperance men are always unreasonable and to a great extent misleading in their arguments and statements.

For instance, the editor of the Toronto Globe, in the issue of Friday, July 3, stated that the bars in Toronto were closed on election day and that on the following morning there were only sixteen drunks in police court, while on Dominion Day the bars were all open and on the following morning there were one hundred and sixty drunks.

At first reading this would appear to be a strong argument against the open bar, but it is no argument at all, because the comparison was really no comparison at all and the men who used it took an unfair means of misleading the people.

For instance, on election day, every man in the City of Toronto was busy at work, either in the factories, shops, stores, banks or in the election booths or out hustling for votes. It was not a holiday but a day of strenuous, hard work. Had the bars been open they would have had very little patronage until late in the evening.

On the other hand, Dominion Day was a public holiday, in fact, it was the big holiday of the whole season. Every place of business was closed, all factories and shops were closed and the consequence was that there were nearly half a million people in Toronto out for a holiday.

With a holiday goes jollity and recreation and it is little wonder that a few people became drunk and boisterous and fell into the hands of the police.

If the editor of the Toronto Globe wants to make a true comparison and a fair comparison between the closed bar and the open bar, let him walk the streets of Toronto in the down-town districts, from seven o'clock Saturday night until seven o'clock Sunday morning and count every intoxicated man he sees.

Then let him go to the City of Buffalo on the following Saturday night, where there are fourteen hundred open bar rooms, and let him count the drunks from seven o'clock Saturday night to seven o'clock Sunday morning and compare them with the number he counted in Toronto.

I have done this, and Toronto has Buffalo beaten to a frazzle—when a man gives information through the newspaper to the public, the information should be reliable and trustworthy and should not have the least semblance of unfairness or untruthfulness.

THE ATHABASCA TRAIL

My life is gliding downwards; it speeds swiftly to the day When it shoots the last dark canon to the Plains of Far-away. But while its stream is running through the years that are to be The mighty voice of Canada shall ever call to me.

I shall hear the roar of rivers where the rapids foam and tear, I shall smell the virgin upland with its balsam-laden air, And shall dream that I am riding down the winding, woody vale, With the packer and the packhorse on the Athabasca Trail.

I have passed the warden cities at the Eastern water-gate, Where the hero and the martyr laid the corner stone of state, The Habitant, coureur d-des-bois—and hairy voyageur, Where lives a breed more strong at need to venture or endure, I have crossed the inland ocean, lying golden in the sun, But the last and best and sweetest is the ride by hill and dale With the packer and the packhorse on the Athabasca Trail.

I'll dream of fields of grain that stretch from sky to sky, And the little prairie hamlets, where the cars go roaring by, Wooden hamlets as I saw them—noble cities still to be, To girdle stately Canada with gems from sea to sea; Mother of a mighty manhood, land of glamor and of hope, From the eastward sea-swept islands to the sunny western slope, Ever more my heart is with you, ever more till life shall fail, I'll be out with pack and packer on the Athabasca trail.

ARTHUR CONAN DOYLE.

THE LITTLE WHITE WAGON OF THE R. F. D.

(By Lydia M. Dunham O'Neil in Farm and Fireside)

I kind of like the city with its quick, snappy ways; The long, brilliant nights and the short, happy days; The streets full of people, the buildings so high; The cars and the autos that dash swiftly by; The big police in uniform, dignified and smart; The hand that in the evening plays, the million lights that shine; I like it; but I'm lonesome for what I never see— The little white wagon of the R. F. D.

Of course I miss the river, winding quietly away, And the blue hills, melting into soft distant gray; The broad, blooming meadows and the green pasture land; The noisy little brooklet by the stone bridge spanned; The rabbit in the forest, the whippoorwill, the quail, The silver-throated brown thrush, the timid wild deer's trail; But I would not be lonely if only I could see The little white wagon of the R. F. D.

Just where green banks and the wheat, the wheat; To walk down the path again, to go against the gate, For the postman's coming eagerly to wait, I'm going back tomorrow, going back to see The little white wagon of the R. F. D.

DOMINION DAY A BIG

The bill was one that would please anyone, and we do not think that there was one person left the house dissatisfied with their evening's entertainment.

The bill for the last half of this week, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, July 8, 10, 11, is a play that has never yet been produced in this section and was one of last season's big successes in the Seatos, it is "Clouds and Sunshine".

The play deals with the story of a young woman trying to live down the fact that her husband is a convict and to do so goes away from the great city to a little country town to teach school.

She refuses to tell the old gossip and Madam Grundy of the small village all her business and of course they must poke their noses in and find out some other way, which they do. When they find out, they ostracize her from their society and she is practically turned out of house and home, until the minister takes her in and gives her a home. This starts the gossip tongues wagging again, but everything comes out right in the end.

The bill is a strong one and the comedy is great. The old deacon, the rube kid and the old town gossip provide all kinds of merriment.

The play selected for the first half of next week, depicts the life of a human being, being buffeted around on the ways of life and shows how fortunes are won and lost in a minute on the great New York Stock Exchange.

"A Fool of Fortune" is the title of the bill and we think that it will please even the most fastidious of theatre-goers.

The story tells of a young man coming out of the great western mining country to New York and how he makes a fortune in no time on the stock exchange and he did it by luck. He then loses it again and still makes another and loses it and returns to the mines, where he makes another. He passes through all the joys and hardships that a man who knows the ways of the world and who passed through it all, can alone tell about.

The comedy is very fine and the parts of the leads, are exceptionally strong ones.

Don't forget that all seats all over the house all season, are two bits, twenty-five cents.

On Thursday evening of this week, the Beach Company will provide for your entertainment a grand free band concert on the picnic grounds by the Beamsville Band. A full programme of the concert will be found on page eight of this issue.

FRY—WISNER
The home of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Wisner, Campden, Ont., was the scene of a pretty wedding on July 1, when their daughter, Stella May, was married to Mr. Harold S. Fry, B.S.A., of the horticultural teaching staff of the O.A.C., Guelph. Rev. S. M. Heneb, of Trinity Evangelical Church, officiated. The wedding march was played by Miss Edith Varco, of Buffalo, N.Y. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore white silk trimmed with handsome lace, orange blossoms crowning her veil. The dining room was also decorated with evergreens, pink and white streamers and carnations. Guests were present from Campden, Jordan, Hamilton, Guelph, Danville, Buffalo, Alberta and China. After dinner Mr. and Mrs. Fry left for Toronto, before going to their home in Guelph.

Mrs. Baker So Weak—Could Not Do Her Work—Found Relief in Novel Way.

Adrian, Mich. — "I suffered terribly with female weakness and backache and got so weak that I could hardly do my work. When I washed my dishes I had to sit down and when I would sweep the floor I would get so weak that I would have to get a drink every few minutes and before I did my dusting I would have to lie down. I got so poorly that my folks thought I was going into consumption. One day I found a piece of paper blowing around the yard and I picked it up and read it. It said 'Saved from the Grave,' and told what Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound had done for women said, and showed it to my husband and he said, 'Why don't you try it?' So I did, felt better and I said to my husband, 'I don't need any more,' and he said 'You be, better take it a little longer anyway.' So I took it for three months and got well and strong." — Mrs. ALONZO E. BAKER, 9 Tecumseh St., Adrian, Mich.

Not Well Enough to Work.

In these words is hidden the tragedy of many a woman, housekeeper or wage earner who supports herself and is often helping to support a family, on meagre wages. Whether in home, office, factory, shop, store or kitchen, woman should remember that there is one tried and true remedy for the ills to which all women are prone, and that is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It promotes that vigor which makes work easy. The Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

If the Post Office department carries out its interpretation of the Postal Act as to weekly newspapers and the dailies as well, will be very hard hit by the large increase in postage. The newspapers have been notified of a coming change which will mean a raise of 800 per cent. in the postage rate at present force. The increase is so great that a protest will be made by the Press Association, and it will probably put some newspapers out of business if enforced.

NEW POST OFFICE WILL PROBABLY BE OPENED IN SEPTEMBER

Carpenters Have Finished Their Work up Stairs—Cement Walks are Laid—Ken Grout Suddenly Takes a Notion to go to Work

The work on the new post office has once more got started and foreman Jas. Blamey expects to have the new building ready for opening some time in September.

The carpenters have finished the interior finishing in the living apartments upstairs and are now at work on the lower floor.

The cement walk around all sides of the building is down and being used. The new cement sides to the steps leading up to the post box are done.

The fittings for the boxes and wickets are now being advertised for and will be put in as soon as the tile floors are laid in the main lobby.

Since the new drain has been in use the cellar is as dry as a bone so that water trouble for years to come is over.

The one big surprise of the whole work on this building happened on Monday morning, when Inspector Ken Grout showed up on the job in a pair of new overalls and announced that he was going to do some work. Jim Blamey nearly had a fit when he saw the queer antics of Ken, but as Ken persisted in doing manual labor, Jim let him go. Ken was taking some nails out of some old lumber and wheeling the lumber home for fire-wood.

CHANGE OF TIME

A change has been made in the time of the east bound morning train on the G.T.R. The time has been changed from 9.34 to 9.56.

AN OLD NEWSPAPER

No one can be found to-day who can recall events of one hundred and thirteen years ago, but George Goldberg, of the Commercial Hotel, Hamilton, has in his possession a copy of the Ulster County Gazette of January, 1881, which contains facts of much interest. The newspaper was published at Kingston, Ulster county and so much does Mr. Goldberg cherish it that he keeps it in a frame and he has also refused $300 for it, the offer having been made by representatives of Andrew Carnegie. He also refused to give a Canadian company permission to reproduce it, although the company offered him $15 per column. It is a four-page paper and contains the speech to the senate of President John Adams, particulars of the funeral of George Washington and other interesting matters. The paper is volume 11, number 88, and it is claimed that only four other issues of it are in existence.

One thing noted from its reading matter is the great change which has taken place in the past one hundred and thirteen years in news transmission. During the time the paper was published it took months to secure details of the world's events, as is shown in articles concerning events of the one hundred years' war. It also took a long time to receive particulars of events occurring in the United States. To-day the events of the world are flashed throughout the world in the twinkling of an eye because of the wireless, cable, telephone and telegraphic services.

The paper was printed from wood type. It carried quite a quantity of advertising matter. The Herald reporter, who was kindly allowed to scrutinize the paper found an adv. where one of the residents notified the public that his wife had deserted him for another and he would not pay her debts. Another adv. offered for sale a portion of a saw mill and "a good, healthy negro wench."

The paper had the following to say of George Washington's funeral: "On Wednesday last the mortal part of George Washington, his great-grandfather of his country and the friend of man—was consigned to the tomb, with solemn honors and funeral pomp."

"On the ornament at the head of the coffin, was inscribed: 'Surge and Judicious,' and on the silver plate 'General George Washington, departed this life on the 14th December, 1799, aged 68.'

The concluding part of the description of the funeral follows: "The sun was now setting. Alas! the sun of glory was set forever, no—the name of Washington—the American president and general—will triumph over death. The unclouded brightness of his glory will illuminate the future age."

An idea of the time it then took to transmit news is shown in an article which was sent from Zurich on September 30, 1799, and did not reach London till October 19 and it then took till January next to reach the United States. The article contained a graphic account of the battle of Zurich, which was a Russian victory. It was also gleaned from the advs. that goods were sold for either cash or country produce and other materials and also that ashes were sometimes taken in exchange.

THE CARE OF ROSES

Hardy outdoor roses require considerable attention for the best results. Good flowers are difficult to obtain from old wood, and severe spring pruning should be practiced. The old bushes should be cut back to within six or eight inches of the ground so as to encourage strong vigorous growing shoots. The number of shoots left of the old wood should be from three to four and from each of these shoots will grow which in turn will bear the blossoms. If no pruning is done, the old wood will send out short side shoots which will bear small and poorly developed blossoms with short stems and of poor lasting quality. The plants cannot be kept in vigorous growth and produce good blossoms are borne on the current year's growth.

The soil in the bed should be given attention. It should be worked up every spring and heavily fertilized with well rotted cow manure. This should be worked into the soil and during the first part of the ground should be frequently stirred. With the advent of the hot weather, the rose bed should be heavily mulched with old leaves or with clippings from the lawn. Roses do best when the soil is kept cool as possible. A clay loam soil is preferable to a sandy one, but under all conditions soil drainage is required.

In order to obtain the best blossoms it is desirable to reduce the number of buds to one or two on each shoot, for if too many are permitted to grow and develop they are apt to become deformed, as the plant cannot supply sufficient nourishment for all the buds formed. The grower should aim to produce not a large number of flowers but flowers of superior merit.

Roses in cold climate require winter protection and this can be provided for by tying some straw around the base of the bushes and a gunny sack outside of the straw to hold it in place though if they are trimmed back considerably a covering of leaves or rubbish held down with sticks or pieces of board will serve the purpose. If not covered, the bushes are apt to kill back close to the ground, thus leaving no old wood from which new growth can start and a seasons crop of flowers is apt to be lost; besides the rose bushes are considerably weakened by the cold. The growing of roses is not necessarily a profession, al work, for they are easy to grow and with a little attention no family need be without them.

THE TIGHT SKIRT CRISIS
You've a very narrow skirt,
Little Girl.
Are you sure it won't be hurt,
Little Girl?
That's a mincing little stride
Where the street is wild and wide?
Are you sure there's room inside,
Little Girl?
What will happen if you slip,
Little Girl?
Aren't you fearful it will rip,
Little Girl?
You had better take a sack,
So if anything should crack,
It would serve you coming back.

Little Girl.
Does your mamma know your out,
Little Girl?
We're afraid to go about,
Little Girl?
If we meet you in the sun,
With your skirt as this y span,
Why, we might all have to run,
Little Girl?
Let the bottom out a bit,
Little Girl?
It is much too tight to fit,
Little Girl?
As the matter sadly stands,
You'll be walking on your hands,
And in that event—my lands,
Little Girl?

Concrete Roads Exceed Farmer's Expectations

THIS LETTER FROM MR. GEO. W. BURT, of Redford, Wayne County, Michigan, shows how well satisfied the farmers of that section are with concrete roads. Nearly one hundred miles have been built in Wayne County.

"Mr. Edward N. Hines,
Board of County Road Commissioners,
Wayne County, Detroit, Mich.

Dear Sir:—

Our concrete roads are far ahead of the expectations of the majority of us farmers. Where we used to be two days marketing fifty bushels of produce, we now market twice as much in one day, and can go to the city anytime we want to. We do not have to wait till the roads are good so we can go. Also, our horses and waggons will last twice as long.

Hoping you will keep right on building these roads, and that the county will stand back of this movement, I remain,

Yours truly,
(Sgd.) Geo. W. Burt
Redford, Wayne County, Mich.

Concrete Roads

are the best, cheapest and most satisfactory roads that can be built. Best, because they permit bigger loads, increase land values and improve conditions generally. Cheapest, because they are permanent and require practically no repairs, which permits road taxes to be spent in building more good roads. Most satisfactory, because they are open to traffic every day in the year, lower cost of marketing and cost of living and increase the farmer's profits.

Good Roads literature telling all about concrete roads will be sent, free, to everyone interested. Write to Elections passed off very quietly here on Monday.

Thos. and Mrs. Clough and Miss Rhoda Springstead of Hamilton, called on friends one day last week.

Active operations have started on new Hydro-Electric line.

The Woman's Missionary Society met at the home of Mrs. Geo. Stewart on Wednesday.

The annual Sunday school picnic of Ker church, was well attended on Tuesday of last week at GRIMSBY Beach and all report having a good time.

Rutherford Springstead of Claremont is renewing old friends.

THE COUNTRY SIDE CRITIC

Beamsville is now the head of the Government, so says Bennett.

How is it all dogs in Beamsville get a kick? That's easy—the town is now Mar-shalled.

When will the school grounds be gerry mandered? Surely we must have a new ride in. Where did the School Board go in an auto. Why they went away to hunt a school in Ireland.

What about that five hundred a toe West end—lots.

Who furnished the lines of poetry for Jim Livingston to criticize Beamsville's smoking parlors? Can you tell?

Who is going to say something about Mountain street road—everybody—its a disgrace to the burg. Its worse than no road at all. That's easy to say.

Who is boss? Why the Superintendent and where is the men cuttin' weeds, in the other end.

Is there anything doin' in Beamsville? Yes, lots. Every one doin' business and t'other fellow finding fault.

To steal from a friend is worse than a smallpox scar, but the man who will take the last bit of meat from your cellar is some relation to the dog tribe. The only difference is he will never bark until he is caught.

Beamsville is watching the new faces which will be Marshall-ed in the Parliament Buildings.

If Jack Canuck could ride on a tele phone wire, just think how fast and furious the citizen's would ac-cu-mulate.

Every man is a smart man, but I'll stake my life—against odds—that more chickens have died since election, than will die in the same time for four years to come.

Why? Because there is not enough feathers left to make a grown bird, to feed the house.

Port Weller is advertising for a real estate agent. Why not ask for a banker? It may be capital they want.

Some can swear a blue streak, but they are not good judges of the color line, anything is good enough.

When does a man get the most sympathy? Three days after he dies, of course. Everybody goes to see the last of him.

As a rule the procession is a long one, but how soon forgotten.

Some men who profess to be good, will drive a horse and work a horse and whip a horse and load a horse with ridges, for not drawing a load big enough for two horses and the horse's shoulders so sore, he will yell out with pain if you point a finger at the sore. Should that man go to a police court or the church for the text lesson. Answer.

Do unto that horse as you would wish that horse to do unto you.

Sound judgement and good behaviour will cover a multitude of sins and is needed a good many times to heal the sores which have become cankered and rotten.

A. B. Tufford.

stand and he quietly passed away.

The funeral took place to Queens Lawn Cemetery.

He leaves behind to mourn his loss a loving and devoted wife, a heart broken mother, a father and two sisters and one brother, Mrs. W. Houser, of New Liskeard and Miss Mable at home and Percy of Hamilton.

Falling Hair and Itching Scalp

NEEDLESS—USE PARISIAN SAGE

Now that Parisian sage can be had at any drug counter it is certainly needless to have thin, brittle, matted, stringy or faded hair. No matter how unsightly the hair, how badly it is falling, or how much dandruff, Parisian Sage is all that is needed. Frequent applications and well rubbed into the scalp will do wonders—it acts like magic. The hair roots are nourished and stimulated to grow new hair, itching scalp, dandruff and falling hair cease—your head feels fine. Best of all, the hair becomes soft, fluffy, abundant and radiant with life and beauty.

You will be surprised and delighted with Parisian Sage. Try at least one fifty cent bottle from W. M. Stewart, Druggist, he will refund the purchase price if you are not satisfied.

DEATH OF R. A. HURST

Another of North GRIMSBY's old residents passed away on Thursday, July 2, 1914, in the person of Richard A. Hurst, at the age of seventy-three years.

R. A. Hurst, although he had been living a very quiet, retired life during the past fifteen years, formerly took an active interest in politics and municipal affairs, being a strong Conservative worker and a member of the Municipal Council of North GRIMSBY, where he owned a farm on the Thirty Road, on the mountain.

Mr. Hurst's wife died many years ago. He never re-married and for the past number of years has been living amongst his children.

The deceased gentleman was noted for his deep religious convictions, being a strong Methodist, an ardent temperance man and in the prime of life was a strong church worker.

For many years he was a power in the eastern section of North GRIMSBY and was also for many years a member of the Local Orange Association, having held all the offices in the Orange Lodge at GRIMSBY. During the past few years he has been very feeble and took no part in public affairs.

The deceased gentleman is survived by one brother, A. R. Hurst, of St. Catharines, one sister, Mrs. O'Neil of Hamilton, three sons, Albert of Vineland, Franklin W. of North GRIMSBY, Harvey of the Village of GRIMSBY and one daughter, Mrs. Thos. Pearson, North GRIMSBY.

The funeral took place on Sunday, July 5, at two o'clock. Service was held at the Thirty Methodist Church and the interment took place in Mount Osborne Cemetery, Beamsville.

In the passing of R. A. Hurst, the last member of the North GRIMSBY Council who was prominent in Municipal affairs twenty or twenty-five years ago, has passed away.

From 1889 to 1890 such men as John W. VanDuzer, Dennis VanDuzer, Andrew G. Muir, Jonathan Carpenter, Thos. A. Kemp, Robert Griffith and R. A. Hurst were the men who dominated municipal affairs and of these, R. A. Hurst was the last surviving member. His passing severed the last link connecting the older brigade with the newer order of things.

A Toronto Business Man Becomes an Apple Grower

No self-respecting magazine nowadays considers itself quite up to the demands of the reading public unless it is enabled to publish from time to time graphic accounts of the successes attending the return to the "simple life" of some individual who has wearied of filling teeth, tasting ground coffee or auditing dusty ledgers. Periodically, and as appropriate occasions, there come from the publishing houses gilt-edged volumes which deal entrancingly with the ventures of some ex-urbanite (always an ex-coo-ding well read and cultured person), who is making a fortune in selling squabs or marketing early Duchess apples in these parts.

Sometimes these pastoral pantheas are instructive; generally they are interesting; always they are staged in the United States. It seems that we in Canada have not yet reached that stage of national development where every citizen is a farmer, a short distance north of the city, alluring the weary city man to perpetual peace and plenty. Perhaps that is because we have too many de-sected farms to permit of their being under any glamor of unreality or romance.

An Historic Farm Site

But, be that as it may, some men in Canada have actually experienced that transition which is the theme of American novels. Witness the case of Mr. Paul Campbell, who is one of the best known fruit growers in the Dominion. Just twelve years ago Mr. Campbell was a simon-pure city business man, a member of the firm of John Macdonald & Company, Wellington St., Toronto. Wanting to retire from the worries of the mercantile world, he undertook the management of the orchard on the home-land of the late James White, well known to the agriculturists and sports men of a fast-passing generation. On his 25-acre farm, a short distance north of the intersection of the Milton and "mid-dle" roads, Mr. White bred some of the most famous thoroughbreds that have ever appeared on an American track. Many readers of this story will recall the names of Totum, Wild Rose and Nettie, winners of the classic Queen's Plate in the early sixties. On this farm by the way, was born the Hon. W. T. White, Minister of Finance in the Borden Cabinet, whose father was a near relative of the James White above referred to.

He Read Some Good Books

But when Mr. Campbell went to Toronto a dozen years ago he took with him little interest in the breeding of race-horses. What possessed more appeal for him was the thirty-acre orchard of Northern Spy trees, planted when he was a slip of a boy. On another portion of the farm, too, was a still older orchard, in which the trees were past the half century mark. Could not these orchards scientifically cared for, and supplemented by new plantings be made to yield a good living? That was the question which loomed large in the mind of the retiring city man.

The new farmer spent his first winter on his farm in a thorough perusal of "What? Books on fruit growing? Exactly. Moreover, what he read he remembered and when spring came he was ready for work. It does not interest the reader to know what Mr. Campbell did in his first year of occupancy; nor does one want to know what policy was pursued in the second or any succeeding year. The whole matter hinges upon the question: "What has he done in twelve years?" The answer to that question is the Campbell orchard as it is to be seen any day at the present time.

Ten Acres of Spy Trees

On the east side of the Middle road, and about half a mile above the G.T.R. tracks, is the ten-acre Spy orchard, commonly reputed one of the best, if not the best, in Canada. The scene a week ago, when this orchard was a mass of creamy bloom, was one not to be seen in the Garden of Eden. A short distance beyond the Spy orchard, and on the same side of the road, stands an orchard of standard varieties that covers fifteen acres. Behind these, and reaching to the borders of the little Three-mile creek, are planted numerous pear and cherry trees ranging in age from two years to ten or twelve years. Through this small-stuff orchard I walked on the day of my visit. The blossoms had fallen and the branches were simply a mass of embryonic fruit.

"You have great promise of cherries and pears, Mr. Campbell," I said. "Yes, I don't think I ever saw such good prospects," was the reply. "But your trees don't look as if they were pruned sufficiently last year. There is far too much wood; they evidently weren't pruned at all last year."

A New View of Pruning

Mr. Campbell laughed to himself—then I got one of his "trade secrets," so to speak. "No, they weren't pruned last year," he said, "as they haven't been pruned since they were planted. When the trees were set out the tops were cut off, but after that—no more pruning. It isn't necessary."

"Do you mean to say bluntly that you never prune your trees?"

"I do in the case of cherry trees. Nature will do her own pruning; I see to it that the trees are well fed and each year I secure splendid crops."

Apple Trees Are Pruned

Sufficiently heterodox, isn't it? I thought so at the time. I didn't tell Mr. Campbell all that was passing through my mind in regard to the merits of his theory; perhaps it was just as well that I refrained, for the time being, from stating my views. However, I determined to transfer discussion to the apple trees, "How about pruning apple trees, then?" I asked.

"That is an entirely different matter," was the reply. "Apple trees must be pruned for various reasons. For instance, one must get rid of the suckers, those up-shooting limbs that rob the tree of nourishment and yield no fruit in return. Then the trees must be pruned in order to prevent their attaining an excessive height. I am a firm believer in the low-headed tree, especially in the case of apples. Pruning, in my opinion, is an absolute essential in good apple orchard culture."

Let's Nature Do the Thinning

This was reassuring; Mr. Campbell and I could meet on some common ground. I decided to explore further. Seizing a very heavily laden branch of forming buds.

"Will you thin those out?" I asked.

The answer was deliberate, yet rather non-committal. "I have never made a practice of thinning," he said. "I always trust to nature to do her own thinning. The June fall may be depended upon to get rid of most of those apples that should not grow."

"You won't thin this tree, then?"

"I wouldn't say that exactly. I never saw such a thick setting of buds and it is just possible that we may have to thin out some this year."

Here, then, was a prominent orchardist who trimmed practically not at all, and who never pruned cherry or pear trees. How did his orchard "pan out" at the end of each year? After all, results count. Here is what the owner said:

And Yet He Gets the Apples

"Do I get fruit? Last year, as you know, was an off season with winter apples. From the twenty-five acres of apple orchard, in spite of the off-year, I sold nearly 6,000 boxes of apples, for practically ten thousand dollars, after expenses of picking, packing and shipping were deducted. This does not include the early apples sold on the Canadian market, nor any barrel lots sold in this country, either."

Always a Box-packer

Not a little of Mr. Campbell's success has been due to the fact that, years ago he realized the importance of proper marketing, as well as of good production. Shippers of apples, throughout the old banner province are only now slowly swinging into line in the matter of the box-pack; Mr. Campbell has used the box-pack for a decade—in fact he never shipped his good Spy apples in barrels. Whether these were going on the Canadian fancy market or to the great city market of the old country made no difference to him; they were properly packed just the same.

"Love all, Mr. Campbell is an 'orchard feeder.' This year his orchard is being liberally supplied with fertilizers—phosphoric acid, nitrate of potash and other recognized foods. A good growth of grass and oats is being plowed under for green manure, the fertilizers going in with the vegetation. "Feed and prune—those are my objects in apple-growing," said Mr. Campbell. "With other tree fruits, no pruning, but liberal feeding."

Men Work the Year Round

Mr. Campbell has solved the labor problem—rather, he says, there is no labor problem. Three men live on his farm the year around, a garden land, milk and wood provided, and work is never wanting. In summer, the care of the orchard and the picking and packing of fruit require all their time and attention; in winter the time of the men is utilized in the work of improving the buildings. In the admirable community of interest existing between Mr. Campbell and his men is an invaluable bond of union that for years has meant satisfaction and happiness to employer and employed.

And C'll an Optimist.

Some three years ago Mr. Campbell took over a portion of the old estate that supported beef cattle and today he is feeding some 60 head of Shorthorns. On the farm is a huge well-preserved structure of enormous size, that actually includes five separate and distinct barns. The huge basement affords splendid stable accommodation, with a very large room remaining that may be used as a packing and storage house when fruit-picking is in progress. Quite recently the proprietor has floored the stables with concrete, and has installed steel stanchions, litter carriers and conveniences such as water bowls and feed chutes. Mr. Campbell at present owns a fine grade herd, but he is not satisfied.

"The time has come when pure-bred stock is the stock to produce," he said, "and I intend to immediately introduce pure-bred stock into my herd."

"This cheery determination in a man up in years indicates a grounded optimism and a buoyancy of spirit indissolubly connected with country life."

WARDEN RE-UNION

The annual re-union of the Wardell family took place on Dominion Day at Dundurn park, Hamilton, when over three hundred members of the clan took advantage of the opportunity to fraternize once again with their blood relations. The assembly convened at the pavilion at 10 o'clock in the morning, and for the first hour the "Wardell handshake" was very much in evidence. Relatives from Ithaca, N. Y., and Muskegon, Mich., were present, as were also two representatives from Duluth, who were for the first time introduced to their many relatives by the chairman, Isaac Wardell, Smithville. Greetings were extended and speeches made by the following:

The president, Isaac Wardell, of Smithville; Isaac Wardell, Victoria; Will Wardell, Toronto; Mrs. Phillips, St. Catharines; Gertrude P. Smith, Toronto; John Webber, Hamilton; J. C. Wardell, Muskegon, Mich.; the Rev. Mr. McDonald, Port Dover; Miss Hayle Smith, Chicago. Recitations were given by Miss Irene Wardell and Mrs. Jackson, and songs by Kenneth Shaw, Will Smith and others.

After the speechmaking the tables were spread with an abundance of good things to fortify the inner man (and woman). A program of sports had been arranged, but Jupiter Pluvius intervened and the athletic events had to be postponed until the next gathering.
